AGENDA

Land Acknowledgement:

“To begin, let us acknowledge that Queen’s University is situated on the traditional and ancestral territories of the Anishinaabe, Haudenosaunee, Huron-Wendat and Metis peoples. To acknowledge this traditional territory is to recognize its long history predating colonization and to recognize this land’s significance for the Indigenous peoples’ who lived, and continue to live, upon it. The members of our Rehab Student Society make up a diverse group of students coming from many different corners of Canada and the world. We are grateful for the opportunity to meet on these lands, while building relationships and learning from our connections. We acknowledge that for many of us, this journey was made possible in part by the direct consequences of colonization and the systematic marginalization of Indigenous Canadians. Subsequently, we recognize as student leaders and future health care professionals, we have a responsibility to work towards reconciliation, to rebuild relationships with our Indigenous friends, family and community members and to create inclusive and safe spaces for all.”
